Following her first winemaking awards at just 30, Barbara Tamburini broadened her horizons across Italy, with a particular love of Sicily. Her wines celebrate provenance and share balanced elegance.

From two very small vineyard parcels in south-western Sicily, where 20+ years old vines exclusively grow Nero d'Avola – one with low, self-supporting gobelet training, the other with spurred cordon, both harvested and sorted solely by hand. After twelve months each in their own barriques, to refine the rich notes of fruit and smoothen the tannins, two expressions of Sicily's most important grape blend together into a warm and full bodied wine.
